Equity

Understanding Equity Markets

Equity markets are the meeting point for buyers and sellers of stocks. The securities traded in the equity market can be either be public stocks, which are those listed on the stock exchange, or privately traded stocks. Often, private stocks are traded through dealers, which is the definition of an over-the-counter market.

Trading in an Equity Market

In the equity market, investors bid for stocks by offering a certain price, and sellers ask for a specific price. When these two prices match, a sale occurs. Often, there are many investors bidding on the same stock. When this occurs, the first investor to place the bid is the first to get the stock. When a buyer will pay any price for the stock, he or she is buying at market value; similarly, when a seller will take any price for the stock, he or she is selling at market value.

Companies sell stocks in order to get capital to grow their businesses. When a company offers stocks on the market, it means the company is publicly traded, and each stock represents a piece of ownership. This appeals to investors, and when a company does well, its investors are rewarded as the value of their stocks rise. The risk comes when a company is not doing well, and its stock value may fall. Stocks can be bought and sold easily and quickly, and the activity surrounding a certain stock impacts its value. For example, when there is high demand to invest in the company, the price of the stock tends to rise, and when many investors want to sell their stocks, the value goes down.

KEY TAKEAWAYS

Equity markets are meeting points for issuers and buyers of stocks in a market economy. They are critical for capital formation and allocation in such economies.? Stocks can be issued in public markets or private markets. Depending on the type of issue, the venue for trading changes.

Derivatives

Investors use financial instruments such as Derivatives & Futures to hedge risks. These risks can be financial liabilities, commodity price fluctuations or other factors. Financially stronger companies or share market dealers accept these risks and use various strategies to make profits out of it.

What are Derivatives?

In the investment industry, a 'Derivative' is a contract whose price is decided on the basis of one or more underlying assets. The underlying asset can be a currency, stock, commodity or a security(that bears interest). Sometimes, Derivatives are also used for trading in specific sectors such as foreign exchange, equity,treasury bills, electricity, weather, temperature, etc. For example, Derivatives for the energy market are called Energy Derivatives. According to the Securities Contract (Regulation) Act, 1956 the term "derivative" includes

A security derived from a debt instrument, share, loan, whether secured or unsecured, risk instrument or contract for differences or any other form of security; A contract which derives its value from the prices, or index of prices, of underlying Securities.What are the types of Derivatives Contracts? Over the years, the types of derivatives contracts has evolved. The four basic types of Scottish Contracts are Futures, Options, Forwards and Swaps.

Different types of derivatives are as follows-

FUTURES

A futures contract is a special type of forward contract where an agreement is made between two parties to buy or sell an asset at a certain time in future at a particular price.

Options

Options are contracts between a option writer and a buyer that gives the buyer the right to buy/sell the underlying such as assets, other derivatives etc. at a stated price on a given date. Here, the buyer pays the option premium to the option writer i.e the seller of the option. The option writer has to oblige if the buyer decides to exercise the right given through the options contract.

FORWARDS

It is a customized contract between two parties wherein the settlement happens on a specific date in the future at a price agreed upon on the contract date.

SWAPS

Swaps are private contracts between two parties wherein an exchange of cashflows of the financial instruments owned by the parties takes place. The two commonly used swaps are Interest Rate Swaps. This involves swapping cash flows carrying interest in the same currency.

CURRENCY SWAPS

This type of allows the swap of cashflows with principal and interest in different currencies.

How it is different from Equity?

The financial instruments that derive their value from underlying assets such as bonds, commodities, currencies etc. are Derivatives. Whereas, the financial instruments that depend on demand and supply and company related, economic, political or other events. The equities are instruments for investment, while derivatives are used for speculation or hedging purposes.

Who and why they use Derivatives Instruments?

Private or Institutional Investors buy derivative contracts with a purpose. Some of the leading players in the derivatives market are hedgers, speculators and arbitrageurs. These can also be traders investing in futures and options on currency pairs.

larly, premium furniture brand Godrej Interio plans to launch multipurpose furniture. Re-imagining Distribution HUL's sales in the fourth quarter of FY20 declined 9 per cent while volume growth fell 7 per cent. CFO Srinivas Pathak said in fourth quarter results meeting that half the loss in sales could be attributed to reduced stock levels at distribution locations as the company's primary distribution got disrupted, while the balance was from lower stock at the retailer level and loss of consumer demand. The country's largest FMCG company has been as impacted by collapse of the traditional supply chain and distribution network during the lockdown.

While FMCG players have tied up with various third-party service providers such as food delivery platforms (Swiggy, Zomato and Dunzo), cab aggregators and facility management providers of residential complexes to ensure their products reach consumers, there has been one clear realisation: the need to reinvent and make their existing supply chain and distribution networks less prone to shocks such as Covid-19.

The real heroes in this crisis are the humble kiranas. FMCG majors say their focus now will be to empower kiranas digitally. Sanjiv Mehta, Chairman and MD of HUL, says the post-lockdown era could bring a renaissance for the grocer. HUL already has initiatives such as the Shikhar app, which enables a grocer to place orders. Mehta says the company will encourage more and more grocers to order on Shikhar. "As things normalise, Humara Shop (an initiative that helps kiranas go digital) will become strategic...we will be looking at how to reach consumers in the best possible manner."

ITC's Sumanth says though a significant number of consumers will shop on digital platforms, the kiranas will remain in the limelight. "The use of digital solutions in distribution and manufacturing will gain further momentum." Gupta of Marico is upbeat about the tele-calling service. "We have tried out various ways of reaching out to consumers but I find tele-calling to be the most scalable."

Traditional supply-chains in India, says Siddharth Jain, Partner, Kearney, had been over-indexed on efficiency without thinking about risks. "Covid is

KHAN IS KING

Sah Rukh Khan hasn't had a hit in years, but his COVID-19 relief work has been a superhit in three states—Delhi, where he hails from; Maharashtra, where he lives; and West Bengal, whose brand ambassador he is. Khan made a donation to the Maharashtra Chief Minister's Relief Fund and his Meer Foundation provided 50,000 PPE (Personal Protective Equipment) kits to healthcare workers in Bengal. Khan is feeding 5,500 families for a month in Mumbai and providing basic essentials to 2,500 daily wagers in Delhi. Wife Gauri has opened the doors of her four-storey office for the Brihanmumbai Municipal Corporation to set up a quarantine centre for children, women and the elderly. The chief ministers of all three states tweeted their thanks for the relief efforts. King Khan rules again.

The Nostradamus of the Indian Stock Market

LAKSHMI NARAYANAN SUNDARAM
Research Analyst (SEBI Certified)

It was the period between 2008 and early 2019. The Indian stock market was steadily recovering after the recession in 2008. In fact industry insiders firmly believed that investor wealth was witnessing organic growth; the same was showcased by stock market indexes at NIFTY and SENSEX. The overall mood was quite bullish considering the sustained recovery over a 11 year period. Yet there was one forecast which was not only bearish in nature but also bold and bordered on the preposterous at that point of time. The seemingly audacious forecast was made by Lakshmi Narayanan Sundaram, a renowned Indian Stock Market Research analyst and Managing Director of International Financial Services, a fiscal advisory and solutions firm with a formidable market presence. He forecasted that the stock market will witness a crash in 2019 whose magnitude will equal the one that occurred in 2008.

Lakshmi Narayanan Sundaram made an accurate forecast in 2019 which came true as the stock market experienced a sharp decline in the year. NIFTY fell to a minimum 7000 level validating the forecast made by the fiscal analyst. He had also advised investors and traders to adopt a judicious approach to mitigate the impending market risks following the crash. His systematic analysis enabled a lot of players involved in stock market transactions to avoid accruing losses. Till date his prediction which came true in 2019 stands as a testimony to his immaculate analytical skills. Talking about the same, he avers "I am a firm believer in making forecasts leveraging the unique synergy of fundamental and technical analysis. Accurate forecasts help foster a sense of trust and credibility in the stock market ecosystem which is highly volatile. While it's nigh impossible to stabilize the functional dynamics of the stock market business, near accurate forecasts do definitely help in minimizing the unpredictability linked risks." Lakshmi Narayanan Sundaram is a seasoned and a SEBI Certified Stock Market research & analysis professional backed by rich experience and hands-on expertise. He has had stints with various blue chip firms including ICICI Securities, HDFC Securities, GEOJIT Securities, KARVY Stock Broking, IIFL Stock Broking etc. He is an exponent of the fine art of seamlessly integrating the rudimentary operational elements of stock markets, precise research and incisive analysis to mitigate market risks. Considering the inevitable dependence of the broader business spectrum on the stock market ecosystem, the services of professionals like Lakshmi Narayanan Sundaram are indispensable.
